The Royal Commission for settling claims on the Indians is still hard at work, and to all an advance is likely to be for some time to come.

Coun. J. F. Hettis arrived home from Winnipeg Wednesday last. While in Winnipeg Mr. Hettis interviewed the chief of police, Mr. McLeod, in reference to the change of mail route and asked by the strong petition sent down some time, no doubt, influencing the authorities in deciding to stick to the old trail.

On Thursday morning there was an examination held in the St. Catherine's school house. The Rev. Mr. Matheson, incumbent of the parish, with the trustees and several parents and visitors were present. The Rev. Canon Flett, missionary in charge, was unavoidably absent. Great credit is due to Mrs. McTegher for the way in which she has, in so short a time advanced the children.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Mr. Fenell will shortly make his debut as a novelist in a work entitled "Lady Densill." Privileged friends who have read the novel describe it as a work of genius, showing a fine psychological study and written in a worldly original style.

The intended journey of the Earl to Novatoleskaska, to present his son to the Canadians, as their chief, has been prevented by the discovery of a spy, who is now being sought by the Imperial party.

A Canadian officer and his brother have been arrested in connection with the crime. They are believed to be nihilist agents.

The Army and Navy Gazette states that advice from India indicate uneasiness among the European officials stationed in that country in consequence of the existence of Britishman plots against the British regime. The spirit of the native press is increasingly hostile to the English.

The agitation for an increase of the native army and for among the native soldiers with activity of improved patterns is very formidable to the interests of the foreign born residents of some portions of the province. The reduction of the strength of the English garrison, in consequence of the military necessities in Farnham, has added to the alarm.

FRIDAY, APRIL 23, 1886.

A couple of Winnipeg men are said to be trying to secure the Government's consent to their taking Poundmaker and a number of his braves to England for exhibition purposes. It is to be hoped the request will be refused. The people of England have already sufficiently erroneous ideas of "the wild west" without seeking to confirm them in their ignorance.

Large as the debt of Canada, it is not as large as the debt of the Australian colonies, which cannot point to lines of railway such as there are in the Dominion, or to canals or other public works to the same extent that we can. The public debt of the Australian colonies is $600,000,000, and the population is smaller than that of the Dominion. The average debt per head is $186, and the average taxation per head is $13.40. The average debt per head in Canada is $70, and the average taxation per head is $6.

The very uncertain character of the new parliament of Great Britain comes to the surface every now and again. On two occasions three weeks ago Mr. Gladstone's government was placed in a minority, once for the vote for the London parks, and once about condemning the practice of making peace or war without the sanction of Parliament. The week following the ministers had a narrow escape over the claim made on the part of the volunteers for an increase of the capitation grant. Mr. Gladstone is likely to find himself in a minority on some highly important questions before long if what has happened is any criterion of what is to come.

Americans can be very cool at times. The New York Herald asserts that the attitude of the Canadian Government towards American fishermen is attracting attention "because of its extreme unreasonableness and the irritating manner in which the Canadians are attempting to set up a system of non-intercourse, purely vexatious to our people and injurious to their own." For frigid impudence this takes the whole cake. Canadians are simply trying to enforce the provisions of the Washington treaty of 1818. If the provisions of that treaty are vexatious to Americans they have only themselves to thank for it. The treaty of 1818 is revived owing to the lapse of the treaty of 1871, and it is not for Americans to complain.

While all will admire the courage of Mr. Gladstone in bringing forward his bill to provide home rule for Ireland, the fact remains that it does not satisfy. It will satisfy neither Liberals, Radicals, Conservatives, nor the Parnellites. It does not go far enough for some, and it goes too far for others. It is yet too soon to criticize the bill, as its details have not been made public, but the statement by Mr. Chamberlain recently, that he would sooner vote for separation pure and simple than for the bill, is startling. The real trouble in dealing with the Irish question is that what will please the English and Scotch will not be acceptable to a majority of the Irish, and what will please the Irish will never be accepted by the Scotch and English.

The Imperial Government is alive to the great importance of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and is taking steps to utilize the road. Lord Harrowby has put the claims of the railway company and of Canada for some substantial recognition at the hands of the Imperial authorities before the House of Lords, and a cautious and official reply was given. What the Imperial Government may do is uncertain and unknown, but it is known that a sum of money was as good as promised to those who will develop a new route from Vancouver's Island to Japan, China or India. The present quickest service from London to Hong Kong is performed in from 34 to 37 days, according to season; to Shanghai in 39 to 42 days, and to Yokohama in 43 to 46 days. By the Canadian route the time to Hong Kong will be 29½ to 31½ days, to Shanghai 28 to 30 days, and to Yokohama 24 to 26 days. But on other grounds than those of despatch the Imperial authorities are alive to the importance of the road. It is always well to have two strings to one's bow, and at present there is only one string and it is liable to break at any time. In the event of war the Suez canal could be blocked and England be seriously hampered in her efforts to reach India. The C. P. R. is another string to the bow. The wisdom of Sir John A. Macdonald in hurrying the road to completion is becoming more and more apparent every day.

A recent issue of the Canadian Gazette states that Dr. Barnardo has accepted, under the terms of the Dominion Lands Act, a section and a half of land in the Northwest, upon which to start an institution in connection with his establishments in London, for the training of boys for agricultural life on the prairies. Already Dr. Barnardo has placed out in Canada 1,734 boys and girls, all of whom are doing well in situations which have been found for them, chiefly with farmers in Ontario. Another party of boys, numbering upwards of 200, has recently arrived, bringing up the total to almost 2,000. The scheme of having a Northwest Home appears to be an admirable one. With our farmers the season for harvesting operations is short and labor is scarce. Good honest boys would be a valuable assistance, and in addition to any temporary advantage that would be derived from their presence, they might many of them be expected in time to take up land for themselves and thus transform the waifs of London into respectable and well-to-do settlers.

The Canadian Gazette, London, Eng., says:—Mr. Begg's paper on "Canada and its National Highway," which was read before the Society of Arts on Tuesday evening and from which we give some lengthy extracts on another page, was noteworthy for the amount of information respecting the Dominion conveyed within the narrow limits imposed by the occasion. It was listened to with interest by a numerous audience, to whom some idea of the scenic attractions of the Dominion, as well as of the chief features of some of the leading cities, was given by means of the excellent views which were shown after the reading of the paper. A vote of thanks to Mr. Begg was proposed by Dr. Edwards, who was also from personal knowledge of the Dominion to endorse many of Mr. Begg's statements, and who emphasised the importance of emigration as a means of dealing with the evils resulting from over-population in the Old Country. Mr. Chadwick, who also spoke, referred specially to the importance of the Hudson's Bay route which it proved feasible. Sir Chas. Tupper, the chairman, after complimenting Mr. Begg upon the able and instructive paper he had read, also dwelt upon the emigration question, and pointed out the military value of the new route to the east which the Canadian Pacific Railway has opened up. Mr. Begg briefly acknowledged the well-earned compliment paid to him, and an interesting meeting brought to a close with the usual vote of thanks to the chairman.

TERRITORIAL NEWS

EDMONTON.

From the Bulletin.

Winter lingers in the lap of spring. Meeting of the agricultural society this afternoon.

Rumored that Judge Roleau will hold court here on April 14th next.

F. Provost is building bath-tubs with which to take produce down the river.

A detachment of police about ten strong were transferred to Ft. Saskatchewan on Friday.

Tuesday was quite stormy and about two inches of snow fell. The weather was not cold.

Jan. Pruden, of Beaver Lake, was in town last week. Bare ground and prairie fires running in that region since Feb. 1th.

Indians in the Victoria agency are now receiving rations. There have been few if any complaints in the Edmonton agency this winter.

FORT McLEOD.

From the Gazette.

An extensive prairie fire was raging on Willow Creek on Sunday.

C. Craig has purchased the ranch and stock of Philip Carr, and now has the dairy field all to himself. He is doing a rushing business.

The weather during the past ten days or so has been simply magnificent. Bright, clear days with scarcely a breath of wind, and the white mountains ridged with black standing out in bold relief against the clear sky. No wonder one becomes attached to such a country.

The new tri-weekly mail schedule is in full working order, and is a great convenience. We have every reason to be satisfied with the treatment we are receiving at the hands of the post office department. The weekly mail was always an immense one, requiring considerable time to sort it. Even now each mail is a big one.

LETHBRIDGE.

From the News.

The ferryboat is running on the river here.

The mines were opened again on Tuesday last.

Col. Macleod passed through here on Monday on his way to hold court in Medicine Hat.

Mr. J. H. Cavanaugh returned from Winnipeg on Saturday last. He reports the weather still very cold there.

The prairie is putting on a greenish tinge and a shower of rain now would make the grass grow like magic.

The ranchmen in this vicinity have started the sowing work and consequently ploughs and harrows are in great demand.

Col. Irvine was presented with several addresses at Macleod on the occasion of his retirement from the force. One from the citizens was signed by over 100 persons.

QU'APPELLE.

From the Progress.

Duck shooting.

Beautiful weather.

Mr. H. Fenwick has returned from Ontario. He brought with him a car load of horses.

Several carloads of horses and cattle have been arriving by the C. P. R., some for here, and others for points further west.

The farmers in this vicinity are vigorously pushing seeding operations, and if the present fine weather continues the wheat will be nearly all sown before the end of another week.

More houses are wanted in town. There is not enough accommodation for the families desirous of renting houses. Will not some one or more put their heads together and start a brick yard, and build one or two brick terraces.

We will keep on reminding our correspondents that it takes a whole week to set the type for a newspaper, and that the earlier in the week they send in the letters the more convenient it is for us. Those received late run a risk of being left over till the next week.

REGINA.

From the Leader.

The new grist mill commences work to-day.

The C. P. R. is now opened up for freight traffic to Donald, a station at the first crossing of the Columbia River, R. C.

The Government contract for supply ing the Indian agency with dressed beef for the use of Piapot's, Muscoweecong's and Pasqua's bands, has been awarded to Messrs. Jackson & Tolton of Regina.

Supt. Gagnon has returned from Moose Mountain, via Moonosin, where he had been to report on the advisability of changes being made, or otherwise, in the location of the N. W. M. Police detachments.

MANITOBA.

SELKIRK.

From the Record.

Mr. E. H. G. G. Hay, of Portage la Prairie, is now on a visit to Selkirk, and is the guest of Mr. M. J. Reid.

We understand that seeding is nearly over in the western parts of the Province. We have not heard of it being commenced here yet, but the west is always a rule ahead of us here for a week or two.

The past week has been delightful and balmy spring weather. The snow has altogether disappeared and the ice on the river looks as if its days are numbered. If this weather continues a few days longer we shall soon see open water.

STONEHALL.

From the News.

E. Williams will ship a car load of lime to Winnipeg.

The Court of Revision for this municipality will be held at Balmoral on May 1st.

Farmers in this vicinity have commenced spring work, and several have already done some seeding.

We see that the battalion formerly known as the 11th has been gazetted as the 92nd, and that known as the 12th into the 91st.

PORT ARTHUR.

From the Sentinel.

The ice in the bay is showing signs of weakness.

Mr. A. L. Russell left here to-day for the mining district.

Building operations are quite lively in town just at present.

The Sarnia boats are expected to leave for the upper lakes on the 20th inst.

The train from Montreal to-day contained seven coaches, five of which were filled with emigrants for the Northwest, mostly from the Old Country.

LOYAL INDIANS.

The following letter was received by the Indian Agent here, and handed to us for publication:

Regina, 13th April, 1886.

SIR,—I have the honor to advise you that, in accordance with a recommendation of the Commissioner, the Governor-General in Council has been pleased to authorize that those Indians who, during the late rebellion in the Territories, remained loyal to the authorities, who greatly tempted to be otherwise, should be substantially rewarded. I beg to draw your attention to the accompanying list, in which will be found the names of those of your Agency whom it was considered (after mature deliberation) should receive such marked recognition, the reasons which weighed in the decisions, the nature of the rewards, also in what manner the presentations are to be made. You will be good enough to make these matters as publicly known as possible.

By next mail will be sent you a list, giving the names of all the Indians throughout the Territories, excepting those of Treaty seven, who markedly displayed their loyalty under (in some instances) most trying circumstances.

Of course this list will not contain the names of all loyal Indians, but only such as made themselves particularly conspicuous in upholding the officials and the Government.

It will be well to read this to your Indians on a favorable opportunity offering.

I have the honor to be etc.

RADICALISM.

There are Radicals and Radicals. There are men who, with no wish to tear down what they cannot rebuild, are advisers that progress should be made. But in Radicalism there is a residuum of men of restless, vain temperament and unstable mind who would if they had their way, drive the state coach into a ditch or over a precipice, and call it progress. Such men fail to understand what a true statesman understands, that there is a time to sit down as well as a time to rush headlong onwards. If endowed with understanding these men would not fail to be, being impressed with the idea that the chief end of things is that they and their catchwords should be kept uppermost in public attention. Such men have no real patriotism. If they could speak French they would say, "L'etat, c'est moi." They are busy, fussy, self-conceited, and irresponsible. They rush wildly and noisily about the political world, clacking tongues of brass, and not ashamed to shake their heads and raise their eyebrows at statesmen who have done more for the advancement of political freedom and for the prevalence of the principles of justice than they are capable of comprehending.

These kind of Radicals are constantly declaring their belief in that fungus in political warfare which may be called "sham workmanship." It is one of the natural growths of modern ultra Radicalism, and is as hollow as can be. It is born of humbugness and ambition, and seeking men should give it a wide berth. When one of these men enters parliament the workman becomes his protégé. He takes him under his guiding care, constantly chatters about his rights and his wrongs, and is anxious for his vote. No man can mention one real benefit such legislators ever did the workman. The birds of the air are caged, the fish of the sea are tamed, but no man can hold or tame the Ultra Radical. Working men should beware of him.—Manchester.

PROGRESS OF SCIENCE.

Physical science may be said to have enjoyed the recognition and encouragement of polite society for about half a century. About fifty years ago Faraday gave his lectures on science at the Royal Institution. Society rushed to hear them. The bookbinder's apprentice who refused a baronetcy was the first to give an impulse to a movement which has never flagged since. Before that time men of science were considered an abomination, even the late Lord Derby had no sympathy for the studies his son employed his leisure hours with. The influences of Faraday's revolution have grown year by year and extend more widely than most imagine. Society patronizes it; it is the fashion, even young ladies discuss it and the later developments of protoplasm. But there is a serious forbidding feature in this new scientific enthusiasm; and it is the influence it is exercising on literature. Nothing can very well take from the charm of George Eliot's style, but its attractions are diminished by the introduction of phrases, suitable only to a technical dictionary of metaphors taken from the laboratory, and of similes drawn from the dissecting room.

No longer is physical science the blushing, modest maid it was at the commencement of the present century. The C knows no shame, its men are aggressive and audacious. It tells the world in peremptory language that it must accept certain unverified hypotheses which recommend themselves to the scientific mind, or else perish of its own folly. As soon as a new paradox is concocted, its enunciation becomes the hero of the drawing room. His autograph is asked for by beauty and he becomes the idol of the Mrs. Leo Hunters of his neighborhood. No wonder the study promotes an intolerable species of conceit on the part of the student. There does not exist on the face of the earth a more odious specimen of hubbubbery than the young man who has the scientific craze. There is little of the weakness and the apologetic tone about him which Faraday possessed. He is dogmatical and prosy, possessing a loudness in his tone alien to one's idea of what an orthodox savant ought to be. Society and the world have many crazes. Amateur science is one of them.

KINDLY INTEREST.

A few evenings ago a banquet was tendered the delegates to Ottawa of the Northwest Council, Messrs. Peley, Ross and Wilson, at Regina. During the course of their remarks, each of the three delegates referred to the courtesy they had received when in Ottawa from the different ministers they had seen in connection with the objects of their mission. One and all paid the greatest attention to every suggestion made by the delegates, and one and all were disposed to do everything in their power to further the interests of the Northwest. Especially was this the case with Hon. Thos. White, Minister of the Interior. Every one of the three delegates came away from Ottawa fully convinced that the honorable gentleman is a warm friend of the Northwest. What the country is most concerned to know is that three members of the Northwest Council, after seeing him at Ottawa, are convinced that he is a true friend of this portion of the Dominion.

Mr. Ross, the member for Moosejaw, dealt at length with the clauses of the memorial that the delegates had presented, stating that in nearly every case the concessions asked were granted. A court of appeal was to be established in the Territories; the tax on hay and wood permits was to be reduced. The Government would dispose of their interest in town sites in order to make the properties taxable. The funds of the Northwest would in future be managed by the Council. But, Mr. Ross added, the Dominion Government had assured the delegates that everything would be done to push ahead the Hudson Bay Railway. It has been said that the Dominion Government was opposing the building of the road and that the expedition sent to investigate the straits was a blind for political purposes. A mere dodge in fact. It has also been said, and the statement has been reiterated with painful and wearisome frequency, that the Government cared little about the C. P. R. rates or the interests of the farmers in that connection. Mr. Ross states, however, that the Government will use its best influence to induce the C. P. R. to reduce its rates. Hon. Thos. White was cheered with the delegates for hours at a time, putting off for the purpose most important business. He intends again visiting the Northwest to make himself still better acquainted with its requirements. Whatever may be said to the contrary, whoever may howl differently, whether on a public platform or through the columns of a newspaper, it still remains a fact that deeds are better than words. Mistakes may have been made in the past by the Dominion Government in the matter of settling the country, but they have been those of the head only.

A CURIOUS DREAM.

The Vision of the Night Which Aided Professor Agassiz.

He had been for two weeks trying to decipher the somewhat obscure impression of a fossil fish on the stone slab in which it was preserved. Weary and perplexed, he put his work aside at midnight, and tried to dismiss it from his mind. Shortly after he waked one night, perceiving that while asleep he had seen his fish with all the missing features perfectly restored. But when he tried to hold and make fast the image it escaped him. Nevertheless, he went early to the Jardin des Plantes thinking that on looking anew at the impression he should see something which would put him on the track of his vision. In vain—the blurred record was as blank as ever. The next night he saw the fish again, but with no more satisfactory result. When he awoke it disappeared from his memory, as before. Hoping that the same experience might be repeated, on the third night he placed a pencil and paper beside his bed before going to sleep. Accordingly, toward morning the fish reappeared in his dream, confused at first, but at last with such distinctness that he had no longer any doubts as to its zoological character. Still half-dreaming, in perfect darkness, he traced those characters on the sheet of paper at the bedside. In the morning, he was surprised to see in his nocturnal sketch features which he thought it possible the fossil itself should reveal. He hastened to the Jardin des Plantes and, with his drawing as a guide, succeeded in chiseling away the surface of the stone, under which portions of the fish proved to be hidden. When wholly exposed it corresponded with his dream and his drawing, and he succeeded in classifying it with ease.

The Chicago News has been sued for $50,000 by Minister Winston, for its comments on the Jennie Jones Woods case.
